

December 2018 Update

Dec 10th Grant Application Deadline: Clean Boats Clean Waters, AIS Education, & Planning Grants

CBCW grants and all AIS Education, Prevention and Planning grants are due to DNR December 10th.

Send CBCW applications to DNRCBCWgrants@wisconsin.gov.

New Grants Project Manager Hired!

Laura MacFarland is our new grants specialist, taking the place of Jane Malischke. At this time, she can help with grant reimbursements and questions. Please do not send her grant applications yet.

Phone: not yet assigned

Email: laura.macfarland@wisconsin.gov

Office: Rhinelander DNR office

Mailing Address:

Laura MacFarland

DNR Service Center

107 Sutliff Ave

Rhinelander, WI 54501

Center for Limnology Update

Check out the latest update from Center for Limnology for some blurbs on:

- Trout Lake Station's new director
- Salt in our lakes, including road salt
- Research and staff updates

Limnology News Fall 2018

Science on Tap - Bats! Dec 5, 2018

Bat numbers in WI are dropping due to the invasive fungus white nosed syndrome. Brian Heeringa, Wildlife Biologist from the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest will present at Science on Tap at the Minocqua Brewing Company on how our WI bats are doing, what the Forest Service and partners are doing to protect them, and what citizen can do to help out their own backyard bats. His presentation can also be live streamed online.

Science on Tap - Bats!

Lakes Conservation Partners Meeting - Missed the Meeting?

If you were not able to attend the Lakes Conservation Partners meeting on Fri, Oct 26th, the presentations and handouts are posted on the Vilas County Land & Water website.

2018 Vilas County Lakes Conservation Partners Meeting Materials

Marl Lakes

Not much marl around here, but it is out there! Check out this issue of the Monitor for some interesting tidbits!

The Monitor

Thank You - Enjoy the Holidays!

A sincere Thank you for dedicating your time and efforts to protecting our lakes for future generations! Your work matters, and we certainly couldn't do much without you! Enjoy your friends and family during the Holiday season!

